With the 54-acre Stanley House Hotel and Spa estate rooted in Claire Walker's family history, when Claire and Rhys became engaged in September 2017, Stanley House was their immediate and natural choice of wedding venue. Mellor-based Stanley House is privately owned by the Walker family, and as Claire and Rhys live in the Ribble Valley, Stanley House is a real home away from home. In addition to the family heritage, the hotel's award-winning wedding team were able to create and deliver a bespoke day that not only suited their every need, but reflected their personalities perfectly and told the story of their relationship too.

The couple opted for a marquee wedding and Stanley House provided the ideal grounds to accommodate a large marquee footprint, whilst at the same time enjoying unspoilt views of the Ribble Valley countryside. Wanting to get married one year after their engagement, in September 2018, they were flexible in choosing their wedding date and selected Friday 7th September for their special day. Fridays are fast becoming the new Saturday in an ever-expanding wedding calendar.

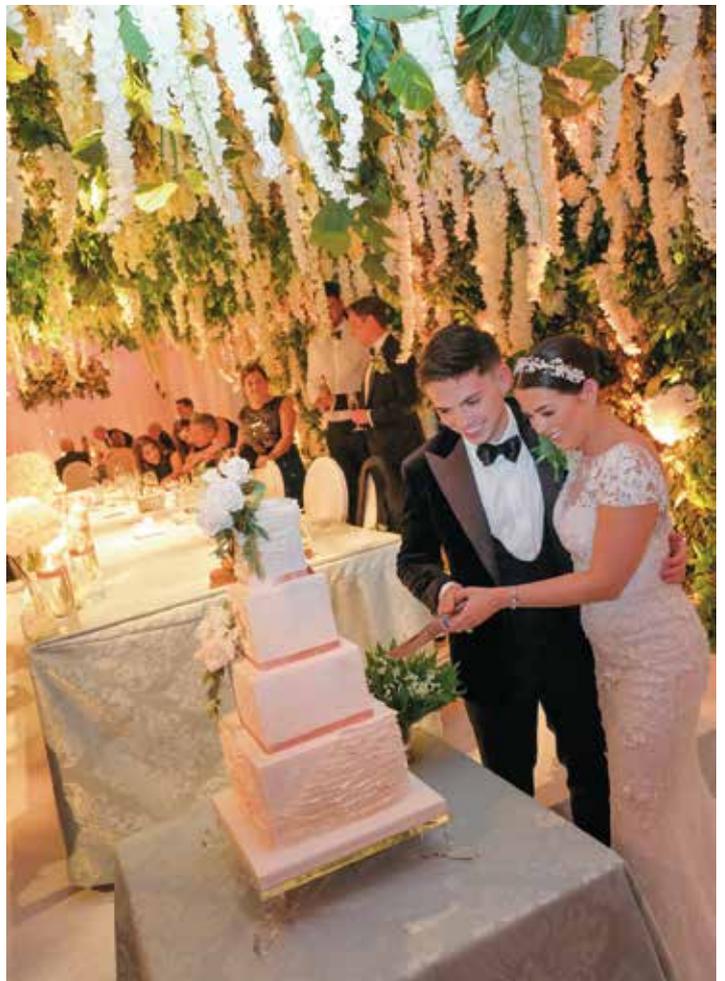

Mahood Marquees, Lightech and Red Floral Architecture were the three main creative influencers when designing Claire and Rhys' dream day, providing impeccable, luxurious styling and meticulous attention to detail throughout. Inclement weather on the day did not deter Claire and Rhys from taking advantage of Stanley House's enviable outdoor spaces, with Ashton Photography utilising the stunning 17th century Manor House as an impressive backdrop, and also the beautifully manicured grounds.

Stanley House stands out in many ways, not only because of its extensive luxury facilities, but also because of the complete freedom their couples have when working with the wedding team to create and design their individual, perfect day. Stanley House's world-class facilities and location would mean nothing without its outstanding wedding team, who work tirelessly to deliver every couple's dream day.

As a hotel, customer service sits at the core of everything Stanley House represents and this is no more evident than with their team who possess a true passion for building an instant relationship with every couple, guiding them from the initial stages of planning through to the moment of exchanging vows.
